

PICTURED BALLOTS

Before the adoption of the present compulsory State Primary law nominations were made in primaries ordered by and conducted under the auspices of the party nominees. There was little or no uniformity about the system and scant check on favoritism as between the candidates.

Under the committee primary system in some counties each candidate was allowed an individual emblem or device of his own selection which made the ballot resemble the proof sheet of stock electotypes.

With sometimes a half hundred candidates on the ballot, the printer was hard put for enough cuts to go around and often it happened under such circumstances that the ballot carried about every pictorial embellishment the printshop provided. Even the stud and jack cuts were utilized and candidates for office found themselves running under all sorts of ludicrous and outlandish pictures.

One candidate would have his device the picture of a cow, while another would have a wagon, a book, a lamp, a sawbuck, a clown, a rabbit, a bird, a hat or any other pictorial emblem that could be mustered even if it had to be borrowed from a standing advertisement.

It was during the 1916 session of ballots were blanket affairs and required the largest bed country press to accommodate them in printing.

Like everything else the picture emblem business got to be overdone and abused and there was much relief when the Legislature adopted the State Primary law and did away with individual pictures on the ballots.

UNIVERSITY OF FLYING

Advanced School Soon to Be Established in Texas.

Newest Form of Training in Air Service to Be Provided by United States Army—Ninety Listed in Initial Class.

San Antonio, Tex.—Development of one of the largest flying bases of the government air service at San Antonio is expected by air service officials with the transfer of the primary and observation schools to this point recently. The latest development of the flying base here is the establishment of an advanced flying school.

The opening of the advanced school, designated by air service officers as a "flying university," is the newest form of training in the air service, according to Maj. John N. Reynolds, officer in charge of the new courses. The school is located at Kelly field. Thirty cadets and 60 officers have entered the initial classes, and it is expected this number will be increased greatly with the opening of the fall term in September.

The advanced instruction offered in the "flying university" is divided into four branches—bombardment, pursuit, observation and attack, the primary groups of the air service. Embryo flyers will be graduated from the primary school, just removed from Carlstrom field, Florida, to Brooks field here, and then advanced to the higher training. The two schools will bear the same relation as high school and university, air officials state.

The present strength of Kelly field is 1,165 men and 108 officers, according to air service officials, while that of Brooks field is 350 men and 45 officers. This number will be greatly increased with the opening of the fall course, when 180 planes will be put in operation, at Brooks field, it is said. Approximately 100 planes are now in operation at Kelly field.

NEW TARIFF EXPECTED TO RAISE MILLIONS

The new rates of the tariff act of 1922 are applying to-day on the flow of American imports. The law, marking a new phase in the history of American tariff, making in its delegation to the President of broad powers under the elastic rate provisions, went into effect at midnight, Friday, with all collectors of customs previously instructed as to its provision, which became operative at once. Millions of dollars of revenue, officials believe, will be raised immediately from the assessment of new duties on goods in bond or in transit to ports of entry.

With the going into effect of the law, the Tariff Commission, as the agency through which the President will exercise his new authority to increase or decrease rate and to change from foreign to American valuation as the basis for assessing ad valorem duties, assumes a greatly enlarged function.

IT'S GOIN' A RAIN

I 'lowed to go a fishin', an' I had my bait all dug, I had my eatin' wrapped up an' some water in a jug, I had some dough balls ready an' some minnies an' a seine— But never got to use 'em, 'cause Ma says, "It's a goin' a rain."

You'd think a little water would just do a feller good, But Ma says it would kill me, she knows good an' well it would. I'd have pneumonia fevers er a rheumatism pain, An' so I had to give up when Ma says, "It's goin' a rain."

But what made me the maddest, was the way she knowed it would

She 'lowed it was a shore sign an' that fail it never could— She said her corn was hurtin', ached with all its might and main, An' when it acts up that way— why look out it's goin' a rain!

—Maud Sparks Crawford.

A Good Job.

"When de birds stahst singin' in de mawnin' an' all aroun' de smell o' honeysuckle stahst creepin' up into a man's soul," said Charcoal Eph, ruminatively, "I got t' admit God dene made a mighty good job o' dis hyar ol' world."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

OLD-TIME REFORMS

Nearly every State in the Union has effected some revolutionary reforms, but none of them has replaced its Legislature of two branches with a single House system, yet such a plan once was proposed for Kentucky. It involved an amendment to the State Constitution, but never got any farther than the pigeon hole of a committee room. And their replacement with an As-sembly of twenty-five Commissioners to exercise all the legislative functions and make the laws for the State.

Eventually such a scheme may be adopted by some of the States, but the chances are that Kentucky will not be a pioneer in a movement so radical.

A REMARKABLE FACT

A remarkable fact is shown in the election of directors of the Burley Tobacco Association by the re-election of every one of the 22 old directors, showing that the people appreciate the efficient and unselfish service rendered by them in the past.

In 1877

We established in Cincinnati a store founded upon the principle of truth, honesty and courtesy. It flourished.

Then in 1889—We built a building which at that time was considered the last word in modern store buildings.

Again in later years—We improved and reconstructed the interior of this building until at this writing, it is one of the most modern business blocks in this city.

That is only part of the story—Our merchandise is always the most trustworthy—our service the best that may be given—our prices reasonable. Men, women and children can procure here every thing desirable in things to wear.

The rest, reading, writing and checking rooms are established for your complimentary use.
